Dear client,

We provide explicit information on when and how we process your judicial data.

Replying to the question whether you have been fined for alcohol intoxication in the past, communicating the written report drafted by the police after a car accident, or in case you are consulting an attorney under your legal defence insurance.

These are only a few examples of situations where we process your medical or judicial data for the servicing of your insurance contract. We provide our services based on the Belgian Insurance Law dated April 4th 2014.

In accordance with the General Data Protection Regulation ('GDPR') which is applicable as from May 25th 2018 onwards, we inform you how we protect your rights for the processing of your judicial data.

For the purpose of our services, we may communicate your judicial data to third parties (insurer; surveyor).

Access to your judicial data remains strictly limited to third parties having a need to receive these data for the abovementioned purpose.

In case it would be necessary to communicate your judicial data to other persons in view of providing our services (for instance to the attorney representing an insurer or the consultant of another party) who are also implied in the execution of the insurance contract, we will inform you and gain your approval before executing our intent to communicate your data. We will also confirm our agreement by e-mail.

We respect your privacy and we highly value the confidentiality of your personal data.
